

The Girl Scout Law for Cookie Sellers

- honest when I start taking orders on the first day of the Cookie Sales and not before
- and fair when I take turns going out door-to-door and share customers at troop booth sales,
- friendly when I remember to say "please" and "thank you" to my customers
- and helpful when I describe the different types of cookies and their nutrition information,
- considerate by selling to my neighbors at a time convenient to them
- and caring by remembering to smile as I give my community the opportunity to buy America's Best Cookies
- courageous by telling customers both my personal and troop goals, or looking for new customers each year,
- and strong on cookie delivery day,
- and responsible for what I say and do when I carefully take my customers' orders and handle money wisely,

and to

- respect myself, by doing my best and being myself,
- and others by getting my order and payment in on time
- respect authority by listening and following rules, including safety,
- use resources wisely when I recycle my cookie cartons to keep our booth sale area clean
- make the world a better place by giving customers an opportunity to donate cookies or using some cookie proceeds for service,
- and be a sister to every Girl Scout, remembering that I enjoy Girl Scouts today because of all the girls who came before me!
